FIELD TRIP!

Written by Mark Haggett

Our third-grade students enjoyed an engaging and educational visit to Lumley's Farm in Plant City on Friday. Through hands-on interactions with farm animals and learning experiences focused on agriculture, students gained a deeper understanding of where food comes from and the important role farmers play in our community. The trip brought classroom lessons to life by allowing students to explore animal habitats, farming practices, and the connection between agriculture and everyday life.

Experiences like these foster curiosity, build real-world understanding, and create lasting memories for our students. They were able to feed some of the animals, enjoy a hay ride, and create experiences that will last a life time.
